Do You Know God? Series

Sermon 2 — Getting to Know God

SECTION 1 — INTRODUCTION

Primary Text

Jeremiah 9:23–24

"But let him that glorieth glory in this, that he understandeth and knoweth me..."

Theme

Knowing God begins by learning what He has chosen to reveal about Himself.

Proposition

God has revealed what matters to Him so that we may truly know Him.

INTRODUCTION

Opening Illustration

Question the audience:

How well do you know your spouse?

- Favorite flower?
- Favorite color?
- Favorite meal?
- Favorite vacation?

Observation

Those answers don't create the relationship.

They reveal the relationship.

Illustration Development

Imagine someone saying,

"I've been married twenty years...

but I couldn't tell you what my wife likes."

Most people would immediately recognize that something is missing.

Not because marriage is about memorizing favorite things...

But because people who love one another naturally learn what matters to the other person.

Relationships deepen through:

- attention
- observation
- genuine interest
- shared experiences

Transition

Now think about our relationship with God.

Many Christians have:

- attended worship for years
- read the Bible
- memorized verses
- learned Bible facts

Yet many have never asked,

"What does God like?"

Not because God needs favorite things...

But because He repeatedly chose certain images...

certain colors...

certain meals...

to reveal something about Himself.

Those choices are not accidental.

They are intentional.

They are invitations to know Him.

INTRODUCE THE TEXT

Jeremiah preached to a nation that gloried in the wrong things.

Some gloried in:

- wisdom
- strength
- riches

God redirected their attention.

Jeremiah 9:23–24

The greatest achievement in life is not:

- becoming wiser
- becoming stronger
- becoming wealthier

The greatest privilege is:

Understanding and knowing God.

SERMON DIRECTION

This sermon asks three simple questions.

I. Do You Know God's Favorite Flower?

Not merely to discover a flower...

But to discover God's attention to detail.

II. Do You Know God's Favorite Colors?

Not merely to study colors...

But to discover God's purposeful beauty and symbolism.

III. Do You Know God's Favorite Meal?

Not merely to study biblical meals...

But to discover God's desire for fellowship.

INTRODUCTION SUMMARY

The purpose of this sermon is not Bible trivia.

The purpose is relationship.

The more we discover what God has intentionally revealed about Himself...

The more we come to know God Himself.

SPEAKER NOTES

Objective

Create curiosity.

The audience should begin asking,

"I've never thought about that before."

Tone

Conversational.

Warm.

Curious.

Do not begin with heavy exposition.

Allow the relationship illustration to draw listeners into the lesson.

Transition to Section 2

Having established that relationships are built by learning what matters to another person, Jeremiah 9:23–24 becomes the theological foundation for the sermon. Before examining God's repeated choices throughout Scripture, the preacher must establish why knowing God is the highest pursuit of life.

SECTION 2 — PURPOSE

Sermon Theme

Knowing God begins by learning what He has chosen to reveal about Himself.

God has not left mankind to speculate about His character.

Throughout Scripture He intentionally reveals Himself through repeated images, symbols, colors, institutions, and covenant acts.

These recurring patterns are invitations to know Him more fully.

Proposition

God has revealed what matters to Him so that we may truly know Him.

This proposition serves as the controlling thought for the entire sermon.

Every major point should support and reinforce this single truth.

The sermon is not about discovering interesting Bible facts.

The sermon is about discovering the God who intentionally revealed those facts.

Purpose Statement

To encourage Christians to move beyond merely knowing facts about God and toward a deeper appreciation of His character by observing the recurring patterns He intentionally placed throughout Scripture.

Objectives

Intellectual Objective

Help the audience recognize that Scripture contains intentional recurring themes that reveal God's character.

The audience should leave understanding that details within Scripture often serve a theological purpose.

Spiritual Objective

Increase the congregation's desire to know God personally rather than merely knowing information about Him.

The sermon should move listeners from curiosity about biblical details to admiration for the God who placed those details within His revelation.

Practical Objective

Encourage Christians to become more careful students of Scripture.

Rather than asking,

"What interesting fact is this?"

Teach them to ask,

"What is God revealing about Himself here?"

The application extends beyond this sermon into every future Bible study.

Desired Response

By the conclusion of the sermon, the audience should:

- Appreciate God's intentional design throughout Scripture.
- Recognize that repeated biblical patterns are worthy of careful study.
- Develop a greater desire to know God's character.
- Read Scripture with increased attention to detail.

- Leave with a renewed appreciation for the privilege of knowing God.

Governing Question

Do you truly know God, or do you simply know facts about Him?

This question should remain before the congregation throughout the sermon.

Every major point should answer that question from a different perspective.

Key Text

Jeremiah 9:23–24

"But let him that glorieth glory in this, that he understandeth and knoweth me..."

This passage is the theological foundation for the sermon.

The sermon does not attempt to prove that God has literal "favorites."

Rather, Jeremiah establishes that God's desire is to be known.

The recurring images explored throughout the sermon demonstrate some of the ways God has chosen to reveal Himself.

Relationship to the Three Major Points

Major Point One

Do You Know God's Favorite Flower?

Purpose:

To demonstrate that God intentionally uses recurring imagery to reveal His watchfulness, faithfulness, and attention to detail.

Major Point Two

Do You Know God's Favorite Colors?

Purpose:

To demonstrate that God's worship was intentionally designed to communicate theological truths through beauty and symbolism.

Major Point Three

Do You Know God's Favorite Meal?

Purpose:

To demonstrate that God's redemptive plan continually points toward fellowship between Himself and His people.

Central Truth

This sermon is not attempting to identify God's personal preferences.

Rather,

it demonstrates that God repeatedly chose certain things to reveal enduring truths about His own character.

Every repeated pattern points beyond itself...

to the God who inspired it.

Homiletical Notes

Keep the Focus

Do not allow the sermon to become a collection of unrelated Bible facts.

Every illustration...

every cross-reference...

every application...

must ultimately answer one question:

"What does this teach us about God?"

If a supporting passage does not help the audience know God better, it does not belong in this sermon.

Preaching Emphasis

Throughout the sermon continually return to the proposition.

The audience should never lose sight of the central goal.

The goal is not information.

The goal is relationship.

The goal is not discovering interesting details.

The goal is discovering the heart of God.

Transition to Section 3

Having established the purpose and proposition of the sermon, the next step is to examine the context of Jeremiah 9:23–24.

Before asking what God has revealed about Himself through recurring biblical patterns, the preacher must first establish why Jeremiah declares that knowing God is life's greatest pursuit.

SECTION 3 — CONTEXT STUDY

Primary Text

Jeremiah 9:23–24

"Thus saith the LORD, Let not the wise man glory in his wisdom, neither let the mighty man glory in his might, let not the rich man glory in his riches:

But let him that glorieth glory in this, that he understandeth and knoweth me, that I am the LORD which exercise lovingkindness, judgment, and righteousness, in the earth: for in these things I delight, saith the LORD."

Historical Context

Author

Jeremiah, often called "the weeping prophet," ministered during the final years of the kingdom of Judah.

His ministry spanned the reigns of:

- Josiah
- Jehoahaz
- Jehoiakim
- Jehoiachin
- Zedekiah

Jeremiah witnessed Judah's steady spiritual decline and ultimately the Babylonian destruction of Jerusalem.

Historical Setting

Judah still possessed every outward advantage.

They had:

- God's Law
- The Temple
- The priesthood
- The sacrifices
- A covenant heritage
- Generations of divine instruction

Yet despite possessing these blessings...

they no longer truly knew God.

Their religion had become increasingly external while their hearts drifted from the One they claimed to serve.

Instead of glorying in the Lord...

they gloried in themselves.

The Problem Jeremiah Addresses

The people trusted in things that naturally impress mankind.

Some trusted in:

- wisdom
- education
- human understanding

Others trusted in:

- military strength
- political power
- national security

Others trusted in:

- wealth
- prosperity
- possessions

None of these things were inherently sinful.

The problem was misplaced confidence.

The gifts had replaced the Giver.

Literary Context

Jeremiah 9 follows a clear progression.

Judah's Corruption (9:1–9)

Jeremiah mourns over the spiritual condition of the nation.

The chapter describes:

- deception
- dishonesty

- betrayal
- violence
- covenant unfaithfulness

One statement becomes especially important.

Verse 6

"They refuse to know me, saith the LORD."

The issue is deeper than sinful behavior.

The root problem is that God's people no longer know Him.

God's Judgment (9:10–22)

Because the nation refuses to know God...

judgment is announced.

Their outward religion cannot prevent the consequences of inward rebellion.

Knowing about God is not the same as knowing God.

God's Invitation (9:23–24)

Against this backdrop comes one of Scripture's greatest invitations.

God redirects human glory.

Do not glory in:

- wisdom
- might
- riches

Instead...

glory in understanding and knowing the Lord.

This becomes the theological foundation of the sermon.

Immediate Context

Verse 24 defines what it means to know God.

Knowing God is not merely possessing information.

It is understanding His revealed character.

God specifically identifies Himself as One who delights in:

- lovingkindness
- judgment
- righteousness

Notice the final statement.

"For in these things I delight."

God tells us what delights Him.

This becomes the bridge into the sermon.

If God openly tells us what delights Him...

it is reasonable to ask,

What else has God intentionally revealed about Himself throughout Scripture?

The sermon grows naturally from that question.

Theological Context

From Genesis to Revelation...

God consistently reveals Himself.

He is never presented as an unknowable deity.

He desires relationship with His creation.

Throughout Scripture God reveals Himself through:

- His names
- His covenant
- His worship

- His commands
- His symbols
- His institutions
- His Son

Every revelation moves mankind closer to knowing the Creator.

Sermon Connection

This sermon does not suggest that Jeremiah was speaking specifically about flowers...

colors...

or meals.

Rather,

Jeremiah establishes the larger principle.

God desires to be known.

The remainder of the sermon simply examines several recurring examples of how God chose to reveal Himself through the details of Scripture.

These examples illustrate the very principle Jeremiah declares.

Key Observations

Observation 1

God condemns misplaced confidence.

Anything placed ahead of knowing God becomes an idol.

Observation 2

God invites mankind into relationship.

The greatest privilege available to humanity is to know the Creator.

Observation 3

God identifies what delights Him.

If God delights in revealing His character...

His people should delight in learning it.

Observation 4

The details of Scripture matter.

God intentionally preserved every part of His revelation.

Repeated patterns deserve careful attention.

Homiletical Notes

Keep Jeremiah Central

Do not allow the sermon to become a study of symbols.

Jeremiah 9:23–24 remains the controlling passage.

Every major point must continually return to the central question:

How does this help us know God?

Keep the Focus Relational

The sermon is not asking,

"What are God's favorite things?"

The sermon is asking,

"What has God repeatedly chosen to reveal about Himself?"

That distinction should remain clear throughout the lesson.

Transition to Major Point One

If knowing God is life's greatest privilege...

then every intentional revelation of His character deserves our attention.

One of the earliest recurring images God chose appears in the Tabernacle itself.

It is a flower.

Not just any flower...

The almond blossom.

That leads naturally into our first question.

Do You Know God's Favorite Flower?

SECTION 4 — MAJOR POINT ONE

I. Do You Know God's Favorite Flower?

Primary Texts

- Exodus 25:31–40
 - Numbers 17:8
 - Jeremiah 1:11–12
 - Ecclesiastes 12:5

Central Truth

God repeatedly chose the almond blossom as part of His divine revelation.

While Scripture never explicitly calls it God's "favorite flower," its recurring appearance demonstrates that God intentionally used it to teach important truths about His character.

The question is not,

"Did God have a favorite flower?"

The question is,

"Why did God repeatedly choose this flower?"

A. God Chose the Almond Blossom

Scripture

Exodus 25:31–40

God instructed Moses to construct the golden lampstand.

The lampstand was not left to artistic imagination.

Every measurement...

every ornament...

every decoration...

was given by divine instruction.

Among those instructions,

God commanded the lampstand to contain:

- almond-shaped cups
- buds
- blossoms

The design intentionally reflected the almond tree.

Observations

The lampstand stood inside the Holy Place.

It continually provided light before the Lord.

Every priest entering the Tabernacle would repeatedly see the almond blossoms surrounding the lamps.

This was more than decoration.

It became part of God's visual teaching.

Homiletical Emphasis

God could have chosen:

- lilies

- roses
- olive branches
- cedar leaves

Instead...

He specifically chose the almond blossom.

God never wastes details.

B. God Confirmed the Almond Blossom

Scripture

Numbers 17:8

Following Korah's rebellion,

God settled the question of the priesthood.

Each tribe placed a rod before the Lord.

The following morning,

Aaron's rod alone had:

- budded
- blossomed
- produced almonds

Life came from a dead staff.

Observations

The miracle confirmed God's chosen priesthood.

Once again,

the almond blossom appears in connection with God's divine choice.

The same flower first seen in the Tabernacle now becomes the visible sign of God's approval.

Homiletical Emphasis

When God chooses,

God confirms.

His choices are never accidental.

C. God Revealed the Almond Blossom

Scripture

Jeremiah 1:11–12

God asked Jeremiah,

"What seest thou?"

Jeremiah answered,

"I see a rod of an almond tree."

God immediately responded,

"Thou hast well seen: for I will hasten my word to perform it."

Hebrew Word Study

Shāqēḏ

Almond tree.

Shōqēḏ

Watching.

Watching carefully.

Remaining awake.

The words sound alike.

God intentionally uses the almond tree as a word picture.

Just as the almond awakens before every other tree...

God is continually watching over His word.

Observations

The almond blossom now teaches another lesson.

God is faithful.

God is vigilant.

God always fulfills His promises.

Homiletical Emphasis

God never forgets His promises.

He watches over every word He has spoken.

D. God Remembered the Almond Blossom

Scripture

Ecclesiastes 12:5

Solomon uses the blossoming almond tree to describe old age.

Its white blossoms picture whitening hair.

Observations

The almond tree had become familiar imagery throughout Israel.

It remained a recognizable picture generations after Moses.

The image continued to communicate truth because God's people recognized it.

Homiletical Emphasis

God often teaches through familiar things.

The ordinary becomes extraordinary when God uses it to reveal truth.

Summary Observations

Across Scripture the almond blossom repeatedly appears in moments where God reveals His character.

Exodus

God's dwelling.

Numbers

God's chosen priesthood.

Jeremiah

God's watchfulness.

Ecclesiastes

God's wisdom.

The repetition is intentional.

Application

So...

What did we actually discover?

Not merely that God repeatedly used the almond blossom.

We discovered something greater.

God never wastes details.

The details of Scripture are not filler.

They are revelation.

Every repeated image invites us to know God more fully.

The more attention we give to the details God intentionally preserved...

The better we come to know the God who inspired them.

Memorable Statement

God doesn't repeat Himself because He lacks creativity.

He repeats Himself because He wants us to learn.

Transition

If God intentionally chose a flower to communicate truth...

Should it surprise us that He also chose colors?

The Tabernacle was not only filled with beautiful craftsmanship...

It was filled with purposeful color.

That leads naturally to our second question.

II. Do You Know God's Favorite Colors?

SECTION 5 — MAJOR POINT TWO

II. Do You Know God's Favorite Colors?

Primary Texts

- Exodus 25–26
 - Numbers 15:37–41
 - John 19:2–5
 - Isaiah 1:18

Central Truth

Throughout the construction of the Tabernacle, God repeatedly commanded the use of specific colors.

These colors were not chosen simply for beauty.

They became visual lessons that revealed aspects of God's character and His plan of redemption.

The question is not,

"Did God have favorite colors?"

The question is,

"Why did God repeatedly choose these colors?"

A. God Chose Blue

Scripture

Exodus 25–26

Blue appears throughout the Tabernacle.

It is woven into:

- the curtains
- the veil
- the priestly garments
- the decorative fabrics

The repeated use of blue was commanded by God.

Supporting Scripture

Numbers 15:37–41

God instructed every Israelite to place a blue cord in the fringe of their garments.

The purpose is plainly stated.

"...that ye may look upon it, and remember all the commandments of the LORD, and do them..."

Unlike many biblical symbols,

Scripture explains this one.

Blue reminded Israel to remember God's commandments and to live holy lives before Him.

Observations

Every time an Israelite looked at the blue cord,

he was reminded:

"I belong to God."

The same color repeatedly appearing in the Tabernacle reinforces that God's dwelling is characterized by holiness and covenant faithfulness.

Homiletical Emphasis

God desires a people who remember Him.

Holiness begins by remembering whose we are.

B. God Chose Purple

Scripture

Exodus 25–26

Purple appears beside blue and scarlet throughout the Tabernacle.

Its use was specifically commanded by God.

Supporting Scripture

John 19:2–5

Before the crucifixion,

the Roman soldiers clothed Jesus in a purple robe.

Their intention was mockery.

God's providence turned their mockery into a declaration.

Jesus truly is the King.

Observations

Throughout the ancient world,
purple was rare,
valuable,
and commonly associated with royalty.

Although Scripture never explicitly assigns a symbolic definition to purple, its repeated association with kings and honor makes the connection natural.

Homiletical Emphasis

The God who dwelt among Israel is not merely their God.
He is their King.

C. God Chose Scarlet

Scripture

Exodus 25–26

Scarlet appears throughout the Tabernacle fabrics.
It continually accompanies the colors blue and purple.

Supporting Scriptures

- Joshua 2
- Isaiah 1:18

Rahab's scarlet cord became the sign of deliverance.

Isaiah compares scarlet to the stain of sin.

"Though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be white as snow."

Observations

Scarlet repeatedly appears in settings involving:

- sin
- cleansing
- redemption
- deliverance

Although each passage has its own context, together they consistently remind us that God's plan of redemption addresses mankind's greatest problem.

Homiletical Emphasis

God never ignores sin.

Neither does He leave mankind without hope.

D. God Chose Gold

Scripture

Exodus 25

Gold dominates the furnishings of the Tabernacle.

It covered:

- the Ark
- the Mercy Seat
- the Lampstand
- the Table of Showbread
- the Altar of Incense

The furnishings nearest God's presence received the greatest honor.

Supporting Scripture

Revelation 21

John describes the New Jerusalem using the imagery of pure gold.

The same emphasis on God's glorious dwelling continues into eternity.

Observations

Gold consistently communicates:

- value
- purity
- glory
- honor

The Tabernacle reflected the majesty of the God who dwelt among His people.

Homiletical Emphasis

God deserves our very best.

His presence should never be treated as ordinary.

Summary Observations

The colors of the Tabernacle were not random.

Every thread...

every fabric...

every woven design...

was chosen by God.

Blue reminded Israel of holiness.

Purple pointed to majesty and kingship.

Scarlet reminded them of redemption.

Gold reflected God's glory.

The Tabernacle itself became a classroom.

Israel learned theology every time they entered God's presence.

Application

So...

What have we learned?

Not simply that God repeatedly used certain colors.

We have discovered that:

God teaches through purposeful beauty.

Nothing in God's worship was accidental.

Every command...

every measurement...

every color...

every detail...

revealed something about His character.

When we study the things God intentionally emphasized, we begin to understand the heart of the One who designed them.

Memorable Statement

God did not decorate the Tabernacle.

He designed a theology lesson.

Transition

God not only taught His people through what they saw...

He also taught them through what they shared.

Again and again throughout Scripture,

God gathers His people around a table.

That leads us to our final question.

III. Do You Know God's Favorite Meal?

SECTION 6 — MAJOR POINT THREE

III. Do You Know God's Favorite Meal?

Primary Texts

- Exodus 12
 - Exodus 29:38–42
 - Matthew 26:26–29
 - Revelation 19:6–9

Central Truth

Throughout Scripture, some of God's greatest acts of redemption are remembered around a meal.

From the Passover...

to the daily sacrifices...

to the Lord's Supper...

to the Marriage Supper of the Lamb...

God continually uses the table to reveal His desire for fellowship with His people.

The question is not,

"Did God have a favorite meal?"

The question is,

"Why did God repeatedly gather His people around a meal?"

A. God Began Redemption with the Passover

Scripture

Exodus 12

Israel's redemption from Egyptian bondage began with a meal.

Each household was commanded to:

- Select a spotless lamb.
- Sacrifice the lamb.
- Apply the blood to the doorposts.
- Roast and eat the lamb together.

Deliverance was experienced through faithful obedience to God's instructions.

Observations

The first great act of national redemption centered around the family table.

The lamb died.

The blood protected.

The family gathered.

God delivered.

From the very beginning,

God connected redemption with fellowship.

Homiletical Emphasis

Redemption is more than escaping judgment.

God desired a relationship with the people He redeemed.

B. God Maintained Fellowship Through Continual Worship

Scripture

Exodus 29:38–42

Following the Passover,

God established the continual burnt offering.

Every morning...

Every evening...

A lamb was offered before the Lord.

Key Verse

"...where I will meet with you, to speak there unto thee."

The continual sacrifice reminded Israel that fellowship with God was not a one-time event.

God desired continual communion with His covenant people.

Observations

Passover began the relationship.

The continual offerings maintained the relationship.

God continually invited His people into His presence.

Homiletical Emphasis

God has never desired occasional fellowship.

He desires faithful, continual fellowship with His people.

C. God Fulfilled Redemption Through the Lord's Supper

Scripture

Matthew 26:26–29

On the night before His crucifixion,

Jesus gathered His disciples around the Passover table.

During that meal,

He established a new memorial.

The bread represented His body.

The fruit of the vine represented His blood.

The Passover Lamb had become the Lamb of God.

Observations

The Lord's Supper became the covenant meal of the New Testament church.

Every first day of the week,

Christians gather around the table to remember:

- Christ's sacrifice.
- Christ's redemption.
- Christ's covenant.

The table continually points believers back to Calvary.

Homiletical Emphasis

Every Lord's Day,

God's people are invited back to the table.

Not to repeat the sacrifice...

But to remember it.

D. God Completes Redemption at the Marriage Supper

Scripture

Revelation 19:6–9

The final great meal of Scripture is a celebration.

The Marriage Supper of the Lamb.

The redeemed are pictured as the bride.

Christ is the Bridegroom.

Redemption reaches its glorious conclusion.

Observations

The story comes full circle.

It begins with a lamb.

It ends with the Lamb.

It begins with deliverance.

It ends with eternal fellowship.

The final picture God gives His people is not a battlefield...

It is a banquet.

Homiletical Emphasis

The Christian life is lived in hopeful anticipation.

Every Lord's Supper reminds us that one day we will enjoy perfect fellowship with our Savior.

Summary Observations

Throughout Scripture,

God repeatedly gathers His people around covenant meals.

The Passover.

The continual sacrifices.

The Lord's Supper.

The Marriage Supper.

Each meal points beyond itself.

Each reminds God's people that redemption was never simply about leaving slavery.

It has always been about living in fellowship with God.

Application

So...

What have we learned?

Not merely that meals appear throughout Scripture.

We have discovered something far greater.

God continually invites His people into fellowship.

The table has always represented more than food.

It represents communion.

Relationship.

Belonging.

God desires more than obedience.

He desires a people who know Him.

Memorable Statement

The story of redemption begins with a meal of deliverance...

...and ends with a meal of celebration.

Transition to the Conclusion

Tonight we have asked three simple questions.

Do you know God's favorite flower?

Do you know God's favorite colors?

Do you know God's favorite meal?

Each question led us to something much greater.

Not simply what God repeatedly chose...

But what those choices reveal about His heart.

Now let us return to Jeremiah and answer the question that has guided this entire sermon.

What does it truly mean to know God?

SECTION 7 — CONCLUSION

Return to the Proposition

At the beginning of this sermon we asked a very simple question.

How well do you know God?

Not how much Bible knowledge you possess.

Not how many verses you have memorized.

Not how many years you have attended church.

But...

Do you truly know Him?

Our proposition has guided every point of this lesson.

God has revealed what matters to Him so that we may truly know Him.

Tonight we have discovered that God has never hidden Himself.

Throughout Scripture He has intentionally revealed His character through the things He repeatedly chose.

Review the Three Major Points

What Have We Learned?

We didn't simply discover God's favorite flower...

We discovered that God never wastes details.

The almond blossom reminds us that God is:

- intentional
- faithful
- watchful

Every repeated detail in Scripture invites us to know Him more deeply.

We didn't simply discover God's favorite colors...

We discovered that God teaches through purposeful beauty.

The Tabernacle was not merely decorated.

It was designed.

Every color pointed Israel toward God's:

- holiness
- majesty
- redemption
- glory

God teaches through what He intentionally created.

We didn't simply discover God's favorite meal...

We discovered that God continually invites His people into fellowship.

From the Passover...

to the continual sacrifices...

to the Lord's Supper...

to the Marriage Supper of the Lamb...

God has always desired to dwell with His redeemed people.

Redemption has always been about relationship.

Return to Jeremiah

Jeremiah declared,

"Let not the wise man glory in his wisdom...

Neither let the mighty man glory in his might...

Let not the rich man glory in his riches...
But let him that glorieth glory in this,
That he understandeth and knoweth Me."
That has been the goal of this sermon.
Not to learn interesting Bible facts.
Not to collect information.
But to know the God who revealed those truths.

Practical Challenge

As you continue reading Scripture...
Slow down.
Pay attention to the details.
Ask questions.
Notice the repeated patterns.
When God repeats something...
He is inviting you to learn something.
Instead of asking,
"Why is this detail here?"
Begin asking,

"What is God revealing about Himself?"

The more you understand His revelation...
The more you understand His heart.

Final Exhortation

When we truly love someone...
We naturally want to know them better.

We learn what matters to them.

We listen carefully to their words.

We notice the things they repeatedly emphasize.

Should our relationship with God be any different?

God has already taken the first step.

He has revealed Himself.

He has spoken.

He has preserved His Word.

Now He invites us to know Him.

Closing Summary

So...

What have we learned?

God never wastes details.

God teaches through purposeful beauty.

God continually invites His people into fellowship.

These are not random observations.

They are windows into the heart of God.

The greatest privilege in life is not becoming wiser...

Stronger...

Or wealthier...

The greatest privilege is this:

To understand and know the Lord.

May we never be satisfied with merely knowing about God...

May we devote our lives to truly knowing Him.

Speaker Notes

Conclusion Objective

Bring the congregation back to the proposition.

Allow every major point to converge on Jeremiah 9:23–24.

Leave the audience with one unforgettable truth:

The details of Scripture are invitations to know the God who inspired them.

Final Transition

This sermon serves as the foundation for the remainder of the "Do You Know God?" series.

Having established that God desires to be known and has intentionally revealed Himself, the next sermons will explore additional dimensions of His character, His nature, and His relationship with His people.

The journey of knowing God has only begun.

Key Takeaways

God never wastes details.

Repeated biblical imagery teaches enduring truth.

God teaches through purposeful beauty.

The details of worship communicate theology.

God continually invites His people into fellowship.

From Genesis to Revelation, God gathers His people around covenant relationship.

Memorable Statements

Those answers don't create the relationship.

They reveal the relationship.

God never wastes details.

God teaches through purposeful beauty.

God continually invites His people into fellowship.

The story of redemption begins with a meal of deliverance...

...and ends with a meal of celebration.
